

National Park Service
U.S. Department of the Interior

Manassas National Battlefield Park
Manassas, Virginia

Henry Hill Cell Phone Walking Tour

The National Park Service is proud to present the Henry Hill Cell Phone Tour. It's educational, fun, and easy to use!

Start at Stop #1 located behind the Visitor Center and use the trail map to navigate the battlefield. As you come to each stop, call in and select the stop number. Each program lasts about two minutes. The tour is free, but standard minute usage applies.

Just call (703) 253-9002 to get started!

www.nps.gov/mana www.facebook.com/manassasbattlefield

Henry Hill Cell Phone Walking Tour

At nine stops along the one-mile loop trail, visitors can hear interpretive audio programs simply by calling in on their personal cell phones and selecting the story that matches their stop. These short programs further augment the visitor experience by helping them form a deeper understanding of the events that happened where they are standing.

Stop 1 - Introduction

Stop 2 - The fight for Ricketts' Guns

Stop 3 - The Henry House

Stop 4 - Retreat from Matthews Hill

Stop 5 - Robinson Lane

Stop 6 - Confederates Rally

Stop 7 - Jackson's Lines

Stop 8 - The Assault on Griffin's Guns

Stop 9 - Union Retreat

Henry Hill was the site of the fiercest fighting during the First Battle of Manassas on July 21st, 1861. On this hill, thousands of inexperienced soldiers fought for their homes, their causes, and their lives.

In the aftermath of the battle, Confederate General Joseph Johnston summed up the situation by saying, "Our army was more disorganized by victory than that of the United States by defeat."